Closure threat to care centre for youngsters

A RESPITE care centre in Harlow providing breaks for disabled children is threatened with closure.

Essex County Council has started six weeks of consultations into how it can develop a better range of overnight short break care.

The council is seeking views on alternative provision which could include 'shared care' within existing foster care placements, spot-purchasing placements in local children's homes and bespoke or specialist short breaks.

If it decides to go ahead with any of the options it could lead to the closure of The Maples in Hodings Road.

Shocked parents were sent a letter at the end of last week outlining the proposals.

Dee McCullough, 32, of Woodcroft, Harlow, has been taking her 13-year-old daughter to The Maples for 18 months. "It was the first I, and all the other parents and staff I have spoken to, had heard of any proposed closure," she said.

BIANCA CASTRO

bianca.castro@hertssexnews.co.uk

"My daughter is given 24 nights a year respite care. Without it I do not know how I would cope.

"I have a son as well and I get to spend time with him. It's so important. The alternatives offered just wouldn't work for my daughter and for a lot of others who use The Maples.

"It's a vital service and there is none other like it in Harlow."

Ms McCullough, who is vice-chair of the Harlow Fields School Association, added: "I feel it is really unfair. Nobody has sat down and spoken to us about this. The Maples helps a lot of children and the impact of the closure will be huge."

The consultation will not affect children's eligibility or entitlement for overnight short breaks but may change how they receive them.

County councillor Dick Madden, cabinet member for families and children, said: "This consultation is not about stopping provision, it is about responding to the changing needs of children and their parents and understanding how they want to receive overnight short break support.

"It is vital to stress that at this stage we are purely consulting on options. Should any changes be made these will be delivered in a timely, sensitive way with the full involvement of parents/carers and young people.

"I know that respite care is a lifeline and I hope that we can develop a service that provides the best provision for the child and support for family."

To take part in the consultation, which runs until January 6, visit www.essexinsight.org.uk/consultations.

Trapped driver airlifted to hospital after two buses collide

A CRASH between two buses left one of the drivers with injuries described by police as "life-changing".

The 35-year-old driver, who comes from Harlow, was released by fire crews after being trapped in his vehicle following the collision at Coopersale near Epping last Wednesday.

He was taken by air ambulance to Addenbrookes Hospital at Cambridge where his condition this week was described as "improving".

Two schoolgirls and a woman in her 80s were also injured. They were taken to Princess Alexandra Hospital for treatment.

The collision happened near the junction with Coopersale Common Road shortly before 4.30pm.

Epping Road was closed until about 11pm while the two vehicles - a school bus and a commercial bus - were removed and police carried out initial investigations.

Police said both vehicles had been heading towards Epping when the collision occurred near a bus stop. It is thought the school bus was stationary at the time of the accident.

Any witnesses or anyone with information about the accident should contact PC Bob Colbert at the Essex Police Serious Collision Investigation Unit on 101 or email collisionappeal@essex.pnn.police.uk.

Diamond couple still sparkling after 60 years

IT was love at first sight for a couple who will be celebrating 60 years of marriage today (Thursday). Charlie and Phillis Ruane, both 86, first met in a London pub. After two years of courting they tied the knot in London on November 28, 1953.

"We met in a pub and yes, it was love at first sight," said Phillis. "We got married when we were 26 and we moved to Harlow to be somewhere new."

"We moved here in 1961 and have been here ever since." The couple, who live in Chapel Field, have five children - sons Charlie, John, Gerald and Kevin and daughter Bernadette, - nine grandchildren and three great-grandchildren with a fourth due in April.

They celebrated their diamond anniversary with a meal with their family. "It was lovely," said Phillis.

BIANCA CASTRO

bianca.castro@hertsessexnews.co.uk

THE chief executive of Princess Alexandra Hospital has praised staff after latest figures showed a fall in the number of complaints by patients and relatives.

Melanie Walker said the results showed the Harlow hospital was continuing to improve by listening and responding to the views of people using its services.

"We have improved A&E and we are listening to patients about how we get it wrong or right and how we can make changes," she said. "We have more staff and it's about being really clear in the organisation and that we always do the best we can."

Complaints have fallen from 75 a month to 15. "The really good thing about that is that at the same time we have seen an increase in compliments," said Ms Walker.

"In past years we have not been listening and now we are. It's our job to listen, to care and to help. It's important to remember we are a public service; we are still improving and still learning, which is actually helped by those complaints."

"We have great staff here and I am really proud of them. Their work, combined with our engagement with the public, is what is helping us better our service."

Ms Walker said that when she took on the role of chief executive more than two years ago most complaints were about A&E - the second busiest in Essex after Basildon. "We see a lot of people but now I cannot remember the last time I had a complaint about A&E," she said.

"It's normal for a hospital dealing with so many different patients to have complaints, misunderstandings or mistakes but as an organisation we are always learning and creating a better service, and that comes from our patient interaction."

"We are here to provide a good service - nothing more, nothing less - and we can only do that by being open and listening and learning."

In a bid to ease pressure on A&E services over winter, the hospital is urging people not to go there unless in an emergency, but instead visit their GPs or seek advice from a pharmacist.

READERSLETTERS

I work hard, pay taxes and have equal right to housing

SIR, In response to Clare Harrison who wrote last week about council homes going to people born here (Letters, November 21), she should realise that England is now a part of the EU and as such any persons from the EU can apply for council housing in Harlow.

I have come from Poland and I work hard; therefore I am entitled to be housed. I have as much right to housing as Ms Harrison or anyone else.

I have already applied for council housing and I am currently in band two. I have been waiting more than two years.

We are all European and England is a very rich country. If Ms Harrison wants it to be like the 1960s then maybe she should move away to another country and my family can have her house.

At least I work hard and pay tax, I also have the right to vote in this country and will vote Labour to remain in the EU.

Jakob Gasak
Park Court, Harlow

We should all be alarmed at the increase in cases of TB

SIR, Robert Halfon is right to be alarmed about tuberculosis in Harlow (Star, November 21) as high rates of TB among any population in the UK mean that the disease will continue to spread.

London has the highest rates of TB in western Europe and some London boroughs have TB rates higher than areas of sub-Saharan Africa.

TB is the second deadliest infectious disease in the world and the UK response to it is chronically underfunded.

It is a scandal that the UK does not have a national strategy to tackle TB and that there is only one elderly 'find and treat' van which is inadequately funded.

TB is an opportunistic disease and TB anywhere is TB everywhere. There is an urgent need for a national strategy that is fully funded and engages all the relevant government departments if we are to stop the spread of TB.

Sister Gillian Price
St Elizabeth's Convent, Much Hadham

It's time for Co-op to sever its ties with Labour Party

SIR, We naively thought it was only wicked capitalists that got up to mischief. It now seems our friends in the mutual world were no better.

As a Co-op member and Co-op bank customer I am not particularly bothered what people get up to in their private lives. As long as no laws have been broken then that is their business and their business alone.

What does concern me is that Labour's old boy Labour network took precedence over the professional needs of the Co-op Bank and Group and that many pensioners have seen their life savings decimated by incompetence of the first order.

"WHILE out for a walk I returned home via the Town Park and noticed a group of people standing in the middle of one of the Pets' Conner paddocks," writes John Wilson, of The Hornbeams, Harlow. "Being nosey, I went over to see what was going on and took this photo of a Barn Owl being flown."

If you have a photo taken in or around the town which you would like to feature in our Photo of the Week section, email a high resolution copy in JPEG format, along with a description of your photo and details of when and where it was taken, to star@hertsessexnews.co.uk. Please remember to include your name and address and insert 'Photo of the Week' in the subject line.

Moreover, loyal members, many of whom live in my ward of Staple Tye, may not see a dividend payment this Christmas, all because of greed, hubris and the amateurish way in which senior staff were recruited and promoted.

One does not have to be a member of the Labour Party to believe in the idea of mutuality or, for that matter, to belong to the Co-op. Many like me are true blue Tories. Yet so often membership of Labour seems to be more important than whether a person is fit for the job. That just has to be wrong.

What is equally wrong and scandalous is that whilst the Co-op bank and group were making heavy losses, it was propping up the Labour Party with soft loans and overdrafts at generously low interest rates.

Clearly the time has come for the Co-op to sever its ties with Labour and work wholly for the benefit of its members. That is the true meaning of mutuality.

Why do drivers ignore rules of the road at roundabouts?

SIR, The roundabout at The Stow is an absolute joke. There is going to be a serious accident there soon as nobody seems to know how to use it.

Nine times out of 10 I get cut up at the roundabout.

Surely everybody knows you get into the left hand lane to turn left or go straight over and the right hand lane to turn right.

The other day I went straight over, only for a man to start screaming and shouting abusive language at me, saying I was in the wrong lane. But he was in the wrong lane as the right hand lane is not for those wanting to go straight over.

It's the same at the Sainsburys roundabout. Why are there two lanes?

The only answer to this is for the council to mark the roundabouts correctly before a serious accident happens.

Star's online service keeps me connected with Harlow

SIR, I am not sure if you often get emails from overseas so I wanted to send you a note to say thank you.

I was born and grew up in Harlow but due to work and, most importantly, love, I have moved over to the US. There are things I miss like proper English spelling (the 'u' is a much underused consonant), the BBC and driving on the left side of the road.

However, one thing I don't miss is all the news about Harlow and that is down to the fantastic job the Star is doing with online stories. The style and length of your stories are perfect and I appreciate the pictures that you and the team put up across social media (Facebook and Twitter).

I really appreciate the effort you put into making your stories available and keeping me connected with all the news about Harlow.

Green taxes not to blame for soaring fuel prices

SIR, It is not green taxes which have pushed up the price of fuel, it is viciously greedy suppliers who have increased prices by over 30 per cent since the Government took office ('Robert Halfon's View from Westminster', November 14).

Fuel costs have risen by 1.7 per cent this year while prices charged to householders increased, on average, by eight per cent. This was nothing to do with Labour's green taxes, it was to do with the privatisation of the fuel companies.

The dogma that the free market leads to more competition was never more exploded than by this issue. Big companies trounce smaller companies and absorb their business until they become too big for government to take on - that's what their reaction to the fuel freeze idea truly exposes.

The Conservative Party was part and parcel of this toxic 'competition' though they have tried to erase their links with the past demands for less regulation as well as their plans to increase on Labour's spending plans by two per cent a year. Just as with bus deregulation, the big boys move in and drive the smaller companies out of business and we pay the price.

Robert Halfon must think he's got hold of the greenest electorate ever if he thinks this will please as we freeze.

I am pleased for Mr Halfon that he managed to get George Osborne to suspend John Major's fuel price escalator for a while, just as Gordon Brown did in similar circumstances. People almost had time to top up their gas-guzzlers in the two days it took for the fuel companies to take advantage of the three per cent non-rise to slap on a four per cent price increase!

But there is a much graver issue: it's no good cutting the green taxes when £1bn has already been given to these companies in advance. Any such tax cuts would come through one or two Christmases hence, by which time on current performance average fuel bills will have nearly doubled unless the Government has a crisis of conscience and sets up a regulator with teeth.

Meanwhile the elderly, for whom no amount of lagging in the form of cardies and woolly hats will preserve a core temperature left dangerously low by not heating their homes properly, will end up either bed-blocking or in A&E.

Arrest was an EU-inspired version of extreme rendition

SIR, Any red-bloodied Englishman would surely want to know what on earth both Essex Police and the county's police and crime commissioner Nick Alston think they are doing allowing French police to take part in arresting one of our citizens here in England?

Maybe it is now Conservative Party policy not only to stay in the EU directly against the will of the majority of English people, but also to allow foreign police to arrest and extradite our citizens without due process in an EU-inspired version of extreme rendition?

Former MP reflects on an eventful life in politics

bianca.castro@hertsessexnews.co.uk

MORE than 200 people attended the official launch of the autobiography of former Harlow MP Stan Newens at St John's Arts and Recreation Centre on Saturday.

The book - In Quest Of A Fairer Society: My Life and Politics - charts Mr Newens' life from his childhood growing up in the East End of London, his determination to pursue a career in politics and his years spent representing Harlow in the House of Commons.

The 83-year-old was joined by family and friends for the book launch.

Mr Newens, who is now chairman of the Harlow Civic Society has written several books and articles, many on the history of the town - was first elected to represent the Epping constituency from 1964-70 and then Harlow from 1974-1983.

Following his defeat by Conservative Jerry Hayes at the June 1983 election, Mr Newens continued his political career as MEP for the London Central Constituency, a post he held until 1999.

In the foreword to his book, Mr Newens writes: "I've written this autobiography to record an outline of my life and my life's work which will, I hope, be of interest to people from various social spheres."

"In my life I have striven at all the levels at which I have been involved, including the local, to seek to persuade people to come together and work for the common good. This is still my aim."

"I hope that my autobiography will explain this and illuminate the character of what I have sought to achieve in a lifetime of activity."

Among those who attended the launch were current Harlow MP Robert Halfon, Labour MP for Islington North Jeremy Corbyn and Labour peer Lord Graham, former MP for Edmonton.

Speaking afterwards, Mr Newens said: "It was a superb event. We ran out of books; there was one long line for people to buy and another with people waiting to have their copy signed by me."

"I've had an eventful life and all kinds of people came. It was a very successful occasion; everybody seemed to enjoy it."

He added: "I am delighted that the book has been published, I always intended to write my autobiography."

"When I was writing and I had meetings, it meant not writing for a week which then took half a day to get back into it. In the end it took two-and-a-half years to write."

Harlow community rallies to support typhoon victims

KIND-hearted Harlow residents have raised thousands of pounds for the survivors of the Philippines typhoon that claimed the life of Princess Alexandra Hospital nurse Jeffrey Ducusin and his son, Jairo.

Hundreds of items of clothes, medical care and materials to build temporary shelters have been donated, in addition to thousands of pounds raised through various events.

A spokesman for the town's Filipino community said this week: "We are really overwhelmed by the support of our appeal. We never expected it to be of this scale, it's beyond belief how it has stirred a lot of generous people."

Mr Ducusin, his mother and six-year-old son died when they were blown from the roof of their home by the 200mph winds that struck on November 8. Mr Ducusin's wife Joy, 37, survived.

Mr and Mrs Ducusin worked as nurses at PAH and lived in Harlow for 10 years before returning home to the Philippines two months ago. Jairo attended St Luke's Catholic Primary School, in Pyenest Road.

Hundreds of bags and boxes of items have been donated by individuals, community groups, schools and businesses. The donations will be packed into cargo boxes before being shipped to the Philippines.

A concert organised by the Filipino community and held at the Princess Alexandra Hospital Social Club on Friday raised more than £1,600.

The spokesman told the Star: "Thanks to everyone who have made it a success, to all the Filipinos who have participated, united and shared their talents, to all our PAH friends, colleagues and family for their support and to the Harlow community who made the concert not only a success but an inspiration and a memory we won't forget."

Money raised by residents will be divided three ways with a third going to Mrs Ducusin, a third to another PAH nurse whose family lost everything in Tacoban and a local aid agency.

Residents are continuing to help by holding a number of events in the coming weeks. Next Thursday, (December 5) a quiz night will be held at the Colt Hatch Social Club. Teams of six can take part at £3 a head.

A charity basketball match between Harlow Hawks and a team of Filipinos named the Pinoy All Stars will take place on Saturday, December 14 at Harlow Leisurezone at 5pm. Tickets cost £5.

● Stephanie West, manager of the Tesco store in the Harvey Centre, joined staff member Jennifer Arguelles and members of her family raising money for the British Red Cross Typhoon Haiyan Appeal.

Fernando Arguelles said: "The family gave up their weekend and managed to raise £1,000. We would like to thank the staff and customers for their generosity."

Many hands

THE countdown to Christmas has officially begun in Harlow with the switching on of the town centre lights.

This year's celebrations featured three staggered events, starting in Market Square and moving towards the Harvey Centre and the Water Gardens.

Members of the cast of the Playhouse panto - Dick Whittington - were on hand to help Harlow Council chairman Linda Pailing perform the official switching-on ceremony.

In addition to the music and dancing, the town centre was filled with a number of street artists, ranging from a stilt-walking ice maiden to the Flying Angels.

was erected in the Water Gardens for people to step inside and have their picture taken.

Harlow Council leader Mark Wilkinson said: "The Christmas lights switch-on was a great event for the residents of Harlow and marked the start of the festive shopping season in Harlow town centre.

"The council part of the event bought a big crowd down to Stone Cross Market.

"The evening also launched the start of Thursday late-night Christmas shopping and free parking in the town centre. A Thursday night in the run-up to Christmas now means shoppers will have more money to spend on friends and family and more time to find the perfect Christmas gifts."

The cash flows in after fundraisers tackle the rapids

bianca.castro@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A RECENTLY-formed support group for mental health services in Harlow took to the water for a charity challenge which saw them raise more than £1,000.

The Friends of the Derwent Centre was set up to raise money for the unit in the grounds of Princess Alexandra Hospital, as well as raise awareness of issues surrounding mental health.

A group of 27 FDC supporters - including the director of nursing, doctors, administrative staff, nurses and staff from the finance department - took part in a sponsored rafting challenge at the Lea Valley White Water Centre in Waltham Cross.

Claire Newman, manager of Stort Ward at the Derwent Centre, said: "The staff who took part were amazing. They funded the whole event themselves and gave up their free time to support mental health services."

"Some staff had real fears about the water and still did so well."

She added: "We aimed to raise over £1,000 and it looks like we've hit that target, which is great."

The money will go towards making the Christmas period special for patients of the Derwent Centre who are too unwell to go home.

Any money left over will be used for activities to improve the experience of people using the centre.

Staff and governors are running a campaign to raise £2,000 for Christmas and New Year festivities.

Andrew Geldard, chief executive of the North Essex Partnership NHS Foundation Trust, said: "This was a brilliant event, exhilarating for those involved and it raised money for patient fun and festivities at Christmas!"

"I really want to thank Claire who made this happen. Nurses, doctors, a GP and directors, in their own time, paid for the event and raised money for mental health. It was a fabulous fundraiser!"

The group are looking for more members to join and help raise funds for the Harlow centre as well as raise awareness of mental health.

To get involved, contact Claire on (01279) 827264.

Hearing support launch service

THE West Essex Hearing Advisory Service has launched a free service for people with hearing problems by providing help with their hearing aids at a local GP surgery.

The drop-in service provides advice to people affected by hearing loss as well as basic hearing aid maintenance and batteries.

The West Essex HAS will visit Harlow on the first Tuesday of each month, starting at the Lister Medical Centre between 10-11.15am, The Ross Practice from 12.15-13.15pm and Nuffield House between 1.45-2.45pm.

The charity will also be at Old Harlow Health Clinic in Garden Terrace Road between 1.20-2.45pm on the second Monday of each month.

Foodbank team up with Tesco

HARLOW Foodbank will be collecting donations at two Tesco stores in Harlow to meet the growing demand for its services.

Tesco customers at the Church Langley and Edinbrough Way stores will be able to give food in the stores from tomorrow (Friday) until Sunday, December 1.

A shopping list of the most important items including long-life milk, cereal, tinned foods, tea and coffee will be available.

The supermarkets will be topping up all the donations received over the weekend by a further 30 per cent.

The charity is also hoping to sign up shoppers to the Foodbank 500 Club, allowing supporters to make a regular monthly donation to keep the charity running.

Rotarians donate 'chair of care' to PAH

CHRISTMAS came early at Princess Alexandra Hospital when it was presented with a gift by Harlow Tye Rotary Club.

Members bought a deluxe high dependency rise and recline chair for Harold Ward, which specialises in fractured neck of femur care and the elderly.

The chair was bought with the money raised by wives, partners and families of Rotarians who sold home-baked treats in the days leading up to, and during, the group's annual charity abseil at the Church Langley water tower earlier this year.

A club spokesman said: "Ward consultant

Dr Jane Snook, manager Terri Lopez-Bishop, specialist physiotherapist Paul Esguerra, and his assistant Jurate Gulbinat were delighted to be presented with what we hope will be a life-enhancing gift for their elderly patients with fragility fractures.

"We dedicate this chair to the memory of Jean Colton, wife of long-standing Rotarian Bill Colton who benefitted from the care of Harold Ward."

The chair, dubbed the 'Colton Chair of Care' was presented to the hospital by Eve Bailey, Pat Harries, Pam Moulds, Joyce Lichtig, Jenny Cramphorn and club president Mike Lichtig.

Heartsease joins in the festivities

A CHARITY which provides support to people with heart disease is hosting a Christmas event at Harlow's Princess Alexandra Hospital.

The Three Valley Male Choir will be performing and there will also be a buffet and Christmas raffle.

Police link attack on teenager to house party

A TEENAGER suffered a broken ankle and a fractured cheekbone when he was punched unconscious and kicked while lying on the ground.

The 17-year-old victim was attacked in Woodwards, Harlow, on Friday night.

Police are linking the attack to a party at a house in the same road on that night and have appealed to anyone who was there between 10.15pm and 11pm to contact them.

Anyone with information about the assault should call Detective Constable Mike Ferguson at Harlow CID, on 101 or Crimestoppers anonymously on 0800 555111.

Haul of designer goods found in warehouse raid

POLICE raided a warehouse in Harlow and found thousands of designer counterfeit clothing, jewellery and perfume, a court heard.

Items bearing the labels of Ralph Lauren, Juicy Couture, Barbour, Hermes, Calvin Klein, Hunter, UGG, and Links of London were being stored in the building at the Harlow Business Park in River Way.

Glenn Gardner, 54, of The Chase, Newhall, pleaded guilty at Chelmsford Crown Court last Wednesday to eight offences of possessing counterfeit trademark goods. The court was told it was his second conviction for offences involving counterfeit merchandise.

He was given an eight-month prison sentence suspended for two years and ordered to complete 250 hours of unpaid work.

He was also warned by judge Anthony Goldstaub that if he committed another similar offence he would go straight to jail.

The court heard that Gardner, who took over his father's business when he retired in 2002, had nearly 4,000 items of brand name counterfeit items on eight pallets when police raided his unit with a warrant to search for stolen goods on December 13, 2011.

Officers from Essex County Council's trading standards unit accompanied police on the raid.

At the time Gardner told police he did not

COURT REPORTER

star@hertsexsexnews.co.uk

have any stolen items but admitted storing "snide clothing upstairs", explaining that this meant they were counterfeit.

The trademark proprietors analysed samples and confirmed they were all bogus. However, no value had been put on the items seized.

The court was told that in 2008 Gardner was given a suspended prison sentence for a similar offence.

Glenn Harris, representing Gardner, said in mitigation his client was a family man who worked long hours to keep the business afloat.

It was started by his father in 1957 and supplied fruit and vegetables to hospitals, schools, hotels, restaurants and retail outlets in the area.

Passing sentence, the judge told him: "There were literally thousands of items and you were storing them, you say, by way of helping somebody else."

"You were involved in this trafficking in counterfeit goods which is increasingly a problem and widespread. It's a form of theft. It's not a crime without a victim."

"Trading standards officers battle valiantly, but not always successfully, in holding back the floodgates of crime."

Santas get ready for hospice fun run

St Clare events fundraiser Grace Malek said: "Holly and Belle were the perfect models and were extremely well-behaved for our photographer."

"They both looked adorable with their Christmas bells hung around their necks and didn't seem at all fazed to be surrounded by five Santas!"

NOSTALGIA

The Cossor kiss that made headline news

A ROYAL visit is something to remember. And Harlow resident Bryan Wall has every reason to remember Prince Charles' visit to the Cossor factory in Harlow back in 1978 - he helped to organise it.

And our recent coverage of the visit in Nostalgia has brought back the memories.

At the time Mr Wall was the public relations and publicity manager for the electronics company and so he was involved in making sure the visit went without a hitch.

"I spent many days walking round his route on site and planning his stops and meetings down to the last few seconds," said Mr Wall. "We built new access ways into various parts of the grounds and planned carefully who he would talk to."

"Prince Charles flew himself into Harlow in a military helicopter and landed on a then vacant lot opposite our main building. He was on a whistlestop tour of electronics companies in the south-east."

bianca.castro@hertsessexnews.co.uk

At the time of the visit the heir to the throne was seen as an eligible bachelor, according to Mr Wall.

He said: "As he left us all the staff and workers came out to line the route back to the helicopter and cheer him off. After the chain-link fence shown in your picture, we had erected some low crowd control barriers to see him across the car park."

"As he crossed the car park he spotted one of the young girls we had arranged for him to meet in the factory. She was holding her young child and he went over to speak to her again. As he bent over to say something to the child she took the opportunity to throw her arm around his neck and gave him an affectionate kiss."

"At that moment every flashbulb from the photographers following him all went at once. Poor Prince Charles staggered back and made a dash for the helicopter at a much quicker pace than when he arrived!"

Mr Wall, now 64, of Ranulf Close, added: "The girl got a ticking-off but what was worse is that Cossor was hoping for some useful publicity from the visit. In the event every national newspaper only carried the kiss picture and the story the next day."

"The Daily Mirror splashed it right across the front page and reporters were camped outside the girl's house in Harlow for a couple of days, wanting interviews."

"Prince Charles was apparently quite upset that his serious visit had been brought down to a tabloid-level stunt but for me the problem was that our in-house photographer who had been part of the press pack all day had missed the picture completely as he chose that moment to change his film!"

"For the company records, I had to buy a copy from the Daily Mirror afterwards!"

Stan's memories of a petrol pioneer

A COMPANY newsletter may not be at the top of your list of prized possessions but one employee has been able to keep alive a little bit of history - thanks to his in-house magazine.

Stan Neville, 80, of Fold Croft, Harlow, popped into the Star offices with a copy of the Alan Pond Group staff newsletter which features information on the company's dinner dance, sports and social committees, staff profiles, wedding notices and items for sale.

There was even an offer of a £5 reward for contributions.

Mr Neville worked for the large company, owned by petrol station pioneer Alan Pond, from February 1966 until 1983.

"Alan Pond was a very nice man," said Mr Neville. "The company was big and he had garages all over the UK. I dealt with maintaining and looking after the petrol pumps so I did a lot of travelling across the country."

"I always say he was the last gentleman in business. I later worked in the offices and he gave my wife, who was diagnosed with multiple sclerosis, a job in the office, too. He had some toilets converted into a disabled toilet; he was a good man."

Mr Neville added: "There was a social club at the company and we would all go on trips to Wembley Stadium. We'd have our Christmas party at Barkers building in Kensington High Street. He would pay for coaches for the employees from Harlow and Birmingham - everywhere really."

The business pioneered the development of self-service petrol filling stations at a time when drivers were used to having their tanks filled by an assistant. The station at Nazeing crossroads was the first in Mr Pond's empire.

The photograph above, taken from the magazine, shows daily returns section staff Vina, Penny, Sharon, Joan, Kim, Yvonne, Celia, Denise and Shelia at Templefields who were featured to put "faces to those voices".

Hospital refurbishment provides a 'welcoming' area for patients

THE Rivers Hospital at Sawbridge-worth has unveiled its new look following a refurbishment.

The reception and administration area has been given a makeover as part of an investment programme into the hospital by parent company Ramsay Healthcare UK. Jill Watts, chief executive of Ramsay Healthcare UK, joined Sawbridge-worth mayor Cllr Angela Alder for the official opening of the reception.

Regional director Richard Parsons said: "The team at Rivers has always offered patients a high level of customer care."

"This refurbishment will ensure our facilities also provide the best possible environment for patients, through a welcoming and comfortable reception."

Final chance to join in consultations on bus service funding

BIANCA CASTRO

bianca.castro@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A CONSULTATION over the future of bus services in Essex has drawn responses from more than 1,500 people.

Essex County Council invited bus users and passenger groups to have their say on local services funded by County Hall.

The consultation, which ends on Monday, December 9, provides an opportunity for the public to comment on the types of service the council supports and how it will provide financial support in the future.

Although individual bus routes are not being reviewed at present, responses to the consultation exercise will be used by the county council to decide which types of local services will receive financial support and where "efficiency savings" can be made.

Currently the authority pays £7.9m for almost 200 bus services, which generally run in the evenings, on Sundays or in rural locations.

Approximately 85 per cent of routes on the Essex bus network are commercially run and do not receive county council funding. These services are not part of the consultation.

County councillor Rodney Bass, cabinet member for highways and transportation, said: "The bus services the council provides should meet the essential travel needs of residents, offer the best value for taxpayers and be sustainable."

"Given the challenging economic climate we must be realistic and accept that it is likely that not all needs across the county can be met."

"It is, therefore, extremely important that as many people as possible take part in this consultation and ensure they have their say on the types of bus services they value most."

To take part before the December 9 deadline visit www.essex.gov.uk/bus-review or call 0845 603 7631.

Charity card shop pops up in town centre library

A POP-up charity Christmas card shop has opened in Harlow Central Library to raise money for 28 different causes across the county.

The Christmas Shop is selling greetings cards, wrapping papers, advent calendars and small stocking fillers to raise as much money as possible for the chosen charities.

It is the third year the shop has opened in the town centre during the weeks before Christmas. The organisers are hoping that if it continues its success, a local charity can be added to its list of benefactors next year.

Suzanne O'Reilly, who helps run the shop, said: "It's been going really well so far. It's been busier than last year so we hope that continues."

"Seventy per cent of the money we make goes to the charities."

The shop is open every day except Wednesday and Sunday from 10am-4pm.

Undersea eruption creates new island

A POWERFUL undersea volcanic eruption in the Pacific Ocean has created a new island off the coast of Japan.

It is 600ft in diameter and appeared next to a small, uninhabited island called Nishinoshima.

The mass of rock was forced from the sea following an eruption more than 600 miles south of Tokyo.

The sudden appearance of the new island is the first time the phenomenon has happened in almost 30 years. The islet is made up of volcanic lava and rocks forced from the ocean floor.

In Pakistan, a new island appeared after an earthquake two months ago but it is already beginning to sink.

WIN Panto tickets to Aladdin at Rhodes

FOLLOWING on from last year's record-breaking production of Cinderella at Rhodes, the same team breathe new life into the magical story of Aladdin. Bishop's Stortford's favourite panto baddie Phil Dale returns to the stage as the evil Abanazar, his heart set on finding the fabled magical lamp containing a genie of awesome power. Only the pure-hearted Aladdin and his bonkers brother Wishy Washy stand in his way.

The show is once again produced in association with the Phoenix Theatre Arts group which has brought the past three Rhodes pantos to the stage as well as the recent critically acclaimed productions of family favourite musicals Oliver! and Annie. It promises thrills and excitement to engage the whole family.

Grace Wheeler returns in the title role of Aladdin while newcomer Lucy Syed takes the part of the Princess Jasmine. Comedy fans will be delighted to know that Dan James who starred as Buttons last year, returns as the hapless PC Pong, while Widow Twanky is played by veteran Pete Duffy who won the TV talent show New Faces in 1978!

Now as essential a part of the seasonal festivities as turkey and Christmas pudding, the Rhodes panto in Bishop's Stortford is the festive family treat you won't want to miss.

Performances are staged every day from December 14-January 4 and ticket prices start at £12 with family and group discounts available. Phone the box office on (01279) 651746 for details or visit www.rhodesbishopsstortford.org.uk

Ghost Stories

Victoria Hall Theatre, Old Harlow

STORYTELLING - the act of sitting and listening to a good story is arguably a dying art - but one the Victoria Hall Theatre bought back to vivid life for Ghost Stories.

The Old Harlow theatre, which was built in 1888 and only converted into a theatre in 1995, was the perfect backdrop for an evening of spooky tales.

Directed by Simon Mawdsley, Ghost Stories provided just the right amount of tension, lighting, music and talented storytellers to create an atmospheric and foreboding that created the familiar nervous anticipation of a good ghost story.

The short stories included Whistle and I'll Come To You, My Lad by M.R. James. Read by Paul Johnson - who was fantastic, his voice leant itself perfectly to the tone of the book, and his actions as he read helped add a visual aid to his words. The Viewing by Edwina Moss and read by Caroline Petherbridge was one of the more modern tales of the group and provided a different kind of narrative for a ghost story that left me squeezing my hands with nervous fear.

Kate Milner read The Room in the Tower by E.F. Benson, a far more visual piece, which was read wonderfully by Milner and applied itself well to the stage set adorned with old furniture, candles, abandoned artwork and a covered mirror. The Monkey's Paw by W.W. Jacobs was read by Bernard Moule who delivered a great rendition of the 20th century short story.

Ghost Stories is the first show of its kind done at Victoria Hall and after watching the performances, I hope it is not a one-off.

The show was a fantastic reminder of the magic of a good story read aloud. It is every bit as entertaining and enthralling as watching a film or piece of theatre. It is unique in allowing the audience to use their imaginations, while sitting back and enjoying the show.

Live At The Playhouse

Harlow Playhouse, Harlow

WHILE most of the country was glued to their television screens for the 50th anniversary of Doctor Who on Saturday night, comedy fans were enjoying a spectacular show of their own.

Some of the UK's finest television comedians descended on Harlow for the first Live At The Playhouse comedy night of the season and they certainly lived up to expectation.

Headliner Jim Tavaré was phenomenal. As the only comedian currently performing with a full-sized double bass, his unique set had the audience in fits of giggles from beginning to end.

Sauntering on to the stage, in a full-blown suit, with the huge instrument in hand, it was hard to know exactly what to expect if you've never seen Jim perform before. What ensued was nothing short of genius with the double-bass serving as little more than over-sized prop which provided the platform for brilliant gag upon brilliant gag.

His deadpan delivery and witty one-liners, interspersed with daft asides ensured this was an act you won't forget in a hurry.

Zoe Lyons was also a big highlight of the evening. As one of the UK's best female comedians, her razor-sharp wit went down well with both male and female audience members alike as she confidently reeled off hilarious anecdotes on universal topics, avoiding the more obvious jokes about "women's problems".

In a change to the advertised billing Jim Smallman replaced Paul Tonkinson who is currently gigging in New Zealand. His uplifting stories about his daughter and dad were as heartwarming as they were hilarious. Audience members were also taught the best ways to heckle and how not to make a noise like a machine gun.

Kicking off the evening was award-winning comedian Tom Craine. His anecdotes about dating struck a chord with the audience and were as wise as they were funny, while Bristol-based comic Mark Oliver was a delightful host for the evening.

Suggs turns mid life crisis into a one-man show

YOU'D think that after a year during which Madness lit up Buckingham Palace (oh that roof performance) and staked their claim to London during the Olympic closing ceremony, Suggs would be feeling pretty chipper.

And perhaps he is, but the origins of his one-man show, Suggs: My Life in Words and Music, which he's bringing to Harlow Playhouse next year, comes from somewhere much, much darker.

Suggs - AKA Graham McPherson - had just turned 50, his kids had left home and to help matters, his cat had just died. Did he mope? Did he huddle up in a ball and hide from the world? Nope, because this is Suggs we're talking about.

The Madness front man only went and turned his angsty mid-life crisis into a show studded with comedy, music and a whole lot of chat.

It starts with the demise of his cat, but spirals into what made him start wondering about his dad, a probable heroin addict, who walked out on him and his mum when he was three years old.

Cue a few detours into the depths of his 1970s childhood, spent rambling about Wales and the streets of Soho before his music career - in one of the greatest ska bands of all time, no less - took off, and you've got enough anecdotes for a rather rollicking evening.

The show has already been praised for faultless comic timing, with Suggs oozing charisma and charm, and his mate Deano, described as his 'loyal manservant-cum-pianist', on hand chucking in a few witty asides.

The Independent on Sunday said: "Suggs is an effortlessly engaging raconteur," adding: "Funny and moving, Suggs has made his life story into a great night out." And don't fret; you don't have to be a die-hard Madness fan to enjoy it either - although it would probably help.

>> Suggs: My Life in Words and Music comes to Harlow Playhouse on Tuesday, May 13. Tickets cost £27 and are available from the box office on (01279) 431945.

Harp quartet will pull at heartstrings

SPARKLING quartet 4 Girls 4 Harps will bring their charming sound to High Wych as part of a UK tour to mark the release of their first Christmas album.

Since forming in 2000 under the guidance of Daphne Boden at the Royal College of Music in London, 4 Girls 4 Harps have gone from strength to strength, creating and commissioning new music for a harp quartet.

In the past few years their sound has been heard in numerous venues and at festivals across the UK and Europe. They have performed live on BBC Radio 2's Friday Night Is Music Night and were part of the opening celebrations of London's new multi-concert hall complex, King's Place.

Now members Harriet Adie, Keziah Thomas, Eleanor Turner and Lizzy Scorch - who grew up in the area and was a pupil at High Wych JMI school, are heading for St James's Church to perform on Monday, December 9. The UK tour marks the December 1 release of their debut Christmas album, 4 Girls 4 Harps at Christmas.

The album features arrangements of well-loved and lesser-known carols and Christmas songs and showcases the many talents and sounds of this extraordinary instrument.

Founding member Harriet said of the album: "The harp is one of the instruments most associated with Christmas. We have wanted to record an album of Christmas music for a number of years, as we feel that the sound of four harps together truly symbolises that magical feeling of warmth, anticipation and hope that the Christmas season evokes.

"All the carols on the album were chosen, quite simply, because we loved them. As we were doing all the arranging ourselves it was important to feel a connection to the music from the start.

"The style of the arrangements varies from classical music at its very best, through to jazz and folk-inspired carols, so we hope that there will be a special something for everyone to enjoy."

The concert starts at 7.30pm and tickets are £15 (£12 concessions, £6 children). For more information visit www.4girls4harps.com.

Celebrate the cranberry

CRANBERRIES are the staple fruit of Christmas, creating the sauce synonymous with turkey or adding warmth to winter punches, relishes and jellies.

These beautiful deep red berries aren't only popular with us though, they are also adored by wetland birds, so this year, Wildfowl and Wetland Trust wetland centres all across the country are holding their first ever Cranberry Fest – a celebration of the famous wetland fruit and an iconic wetland bird, the crane, after which cranberries are named.

From November 30 until January 26, WWT Wetland Centres, supported by Ocean Spray, will be showing visitors how to make beautiful cranberry decorations for the tree and cranberry bird feeders.

The plant was first named by early European settlers in America who felt the expanding flower, stem and petals resembled the neck, head, and bill of a crane. Most cranberries are still grown in boggy areas of North America and eastern Europe. They're not widely grown in this country, although specialist fruit nurseries may offer a few types and the RHS also sells them.

The plants do have some visual worth, as they are evergreen and low growing, with pink bell flowers.

Cranberry 'Pilgrim', for instance, available from the RHS (www.rhs.org).

GARDENING TIPS by Hannah Stephenson

uk is a low-growing, evergreen cranberry with small, leathery leaves on lax stems that have an arching habit. Its attractive shape can be best admired when planted in a container so it can cascade over the sides of the pot.

The tiny pinkish-red flowers appear in spring and are followed by tart dark red berries, a regular superfood packed with nutrients and vitamins. 'Early Black' has a spreading habit, evergreen leaves and large dark blue, fairly sweet fruit.

If you have problems with drainage in your garden, the cranberry might actually be for you. They need extremely acidic soil, with a pH of less than 5, and semi-bog conditions. They prefer sun but will also withstand light shade.

If you're planting them in the ground, dig a hole 40cm (16in) deep and line the base and sides with plastic sheeting. Fill with an ericaceous compost and mulch with 5cm (2in) of sawdust or wood shavings. Punch a few small holes in the sides of the plastic just above the bottom to allow water to seep out. If you can, use rain water to thoroughly wet the compost and trample it like grapes until the soil is soaking.

"Keeping them well watered is really important and early to mid-summer is critical," adds Hunt.

"Most days you will need to check the pot. They have a shallow root run so a pot 12 inches deep would be sufficient and ideally you want a pot which is wide but shallow."

In spring, feed the plants with sulphate of ammonia, sulphate of potash and bonemeal and top-dress with ericaceous compost.

If you are growing in pots you can control the conditions more effectively by spring planting in peaty ericaceous compost enhanced with around 10% lime-free grit. You'll need to keep the plants really wet, so stand the pots in wide saucers that remain topped up with water, particularly rainwater, as tap-water contains too much lime.

Feed the plants every week during the growing season with a product specifically formulated for acid-loving plants and you should be harvesting the berries in September and October. They will keep in the fridge for a good few weeks or you can freeze them or pop them on a tray in the oven on its lowest setting for a few hours to dry them.

Once the dried cranberries start to look like raisins, they can be added to bird feeders, while the fresh ones can be made into festive tree decorations, using floral wire and threading cranberries and craft beads through it to form circles.

You can also make snowflake decorations using a foam ball in the centre. Thread 5in pieces of wire through it to form the spokes of a snowflake shape and thread cranberries on to the wire, gluing a craft bead at the end of each wire spoke, to secure the berries.

For more details of the Cranberry Fest, go to www.wwt.org.uk.

A very Mary Christmas

SAVING MR BANKS
certificate PG, 2h05m

ALMOST 50 years after Mary Poppins first charmed cinema audiences, Robert Stevenson's magical film continues to cast a spell with its lively characters, heartwarming sentiment and hummable tunes.

Yet the colour-saturated fantas, which won five Oscars almost never materialised on the big screen. Australian-born British novelist PL Travers, who penned the series of books on which the film was based, famously rebuffed Walt Disney's efforts to purchase the rights for more than 20 years.

When she finally relented in 1961, Travers was granted script approval. Archive recordings of the meetings between the author, screenwriter Don DaGradi and songwriter brothers Richard and Robert Sherman reveal her resistance to the Disney-fication of her beloved nanny.

That infamous tug-of-war between the writer and Hollywood filmmaker is recreated in Saving Mr Banks, an elegant and witty comedy emboldened by tour-de-force performances from Emma Thompson and Tom Hanks.

When we first meet Travers (Thompson), she has fallen on hard times yet still refuses to entertain the advances of Disney (Hanks). Yet the filmmaker is persistent and eventually, Travers flies to America to meet Walt and team including Don DaGradi (Bradley Whitford), Richard Sherman (Jason Schwartzman) and his brother Robert (BJ Novak).

Despite a touching friendship with her chauffeur Ralph (Paul Giamatti), Travers is unmoved by the re-imagining of her cherished text and eventually she snaps, telling Disney: "Mary Poppins is not for sale. I won't have her turned into one of your silly cartoons."

Something has to give and it is Disney who realises that if he is to win over the author, he must confront the ghosts of his own past.

Saving Mr Banks is an embarrassment of riches, from the stunning lead performances to John Lee Hancock's assured direction and Kelly Marcel and Sue Smith's script, which intercut events in 1960s California with vignettes from Travers's turbulent childhood in 1906 Australia.

Thompson is formidable, tossing verbal grenades at anyone who dares to besmirch Travers's literary creation while slowly revealing the chinks in the writer's armour. Her screen chemistry with Hanks is delightful.

Hancock strikes just the right balance between humour and heart-tugging sentiment, culminating in a glitzy world premiere screening where Travers finally shares Mary with the rest of the world and, in so doing, sets herself free.

FREE BIRDS
certificate U, 1h31m

Thanksgiving is one of the biggest national holidays in America, dating back to 1621 and celebrated on the fourth Thursday in November. And the centrepiece of this gathering of the generations is usually a succulent roast turkey.

But in this computer-animated comedy, the feathered fowls strike back, attempting to change the main course of history so that they can be granted a stay of execution every winter.

The film's unlikely hero is a turkey called Reggie (Owen Wilson), who realises that the abundance of food offered up by the farmer is merely a plot to fatten the flock. Having caused a fuss, Reggie is kicked out of the coop and by chance is chosen by the President's cherubic daughter (Kaitlyn Maher) as the one bird to be pardoned from the carving table.

Transported to Camp David where he enjoys a daily routine of pizza and trashy TV, Reggie thinks his troubles have evaporated until Jake (Woody Harrelson), founder and sole member of the Turkey Freedom Front, kidnaps Reggie and pressgangs him into a top secret mission of the utmost importance.

Together, they break into a military facility and use a time-travelling device called S.T.E.V.E. (Space Time Exploration Vehicle Envoy) - to head back to 1621 to spearhead a turkey uprising.

certificate 15, 1h40m

It's perhaps fitting that the horror genre cannibalises classics of bygone decades and churns out glossy remakes to sate the bloodlust of new generations.

And it's no surprise that this seminal 1976 thriller, based on Stephen King's brilliantly crafted story of an outcast schoolgirl who discovers she possesses devastating telekinetic powers, should be given some 21st-century spit and polish.

Carrie White (Chloe Grace Moretz) is a shrinking violet who has been sheltered from the harsh realities of the world by her religiously zealous mother, Margaret (Julianne Moore). One afternoon after swimming class, Carrie gets her first period and her classmates - including Sue Snell (Gabriella Wilde) and Chris Hargensen (Portia Doubleday) - cruelly turn on her in the shower, recording her distress on their smartphones.

While Sue subsequently feels pangs of guilt for her actions, Chris is unrepentant and is expelled by sympathetic gym teacher Miss Desjardin (Judy Greer). The uncaring vixen then plots spectacular revenge on Carrie with the help of bad boy beau, Billy Nolan (Alex Russell).

Tracey Waples Property Editor

I SPENT a fascinating couple of hours interviewing an interior designer this week.

Looking at some of her stunning creations made me want to dash home and make changes to my own home immediately. There's nothing quite like inspiration from the professionals.

This particular designer has a varied client list, with everything from large London houses to small, bijoux apartments by the coast. But no matter how large or small the project, it seems that antiques are making a comeback and are being included in many schemes across the country.

We seem to have replaced the word antique with vintage and although throughout the nineties and the noughties we were encouraged to declutter and let modern design lead the way, it seems it has come full circle. Maybe it's because of the economic circumstances, but vintage is fashionable once again.

Just because antiques are in vogue it doesn't mean we want our homes to look like museums. But what to buy and how can we set things off in a contemporary manner?

You might well find some inspiration in some of the new style antique shops that are emerging at the moment. Not your usual bric-a-brac emporiums, they have grand architectural spaces with imaginatively displayed pieces.

Their displays clearly demonstrate that things look better en masse. Why has one vase on the table when you could have three? Grouped objects have much more impact.

You might already have the beginnings of a collection somewhere around the house or you could start a new one. It doesn't have to be expensive, but think about something that will look good on display.

With the season of shorter days well and truly upon us, this is a good time to take a look at our interiors. A tweak here and there and you can create a whole new fresh look.

Local Property Comment

Alan Howick
01279 401902

Probably The Cheapest Home In Harlow For Twenty Years ..

The signs are encouraging, even the National media seem to have got it right as well.

The market is encouraging and here in Harlow it's as good as it ever been for the last ten years.

Certainly, flats and two or three bed houses up to £200,000 are selling like hot cakes and at the moment we are able to offer one or two bed flats for the first time buyer, on a shared ownership scheme for as little as £28,125!

That's got to be the cheapest home sale in Harlow for the best part of twenty years!

The flats are in the recently modernised and refurbished JRA building, formally known as Joseph Rank House an important landmark building in our town centre.

All of the flats are brand new, enjoy a terrific specification and ideal for those working in or near to the town centre. And of course, for anyone who travel to London, the station is just about a mile or so away.

Alan

MATT JOY

THIS is the longest and widest city car out there – and Hyundai wants to shout about it.

'B-segment quality and practicality in an A-segment package' is the rallying cry from the people behind the all-new i10, and a significant increase in size helps it on its way.

One suited company rep even described the car as more of an 'A+-segment' machine, but enough talk of segments – we're not dealing with a chocolate orange.

The bottom line is that the i10 is quite a bit bigger externally than its main rivals.

You get the biggest boot in the class, with a broad floor area to accommodate a medium-size travel case flat, instead of rival cars' boots which might force you to stand it up or lie it on its side.

The spacious cabin is dominated by a huge, full-width coloured panel on the dashboard in a choice of orange or blue – with beige restricted to the entry-level S model and red kept only for the Premium grade.

It certainly gives the car a measure of character, but it's also a divisive feature, so get up close to form your own opinion of how it looks.

Physical quality is as high as you could hope for in a car of this class. The plastics are hard and, in some cases, very hollow-sounding, but there's no exposed metal anywhere.

Then factor in the classy centre console layout and Hyundai has a good case to argue that the i10 has a higher perceived quality than any of its competitors.

Practicality is boosted by the new model's inflated size.

There are more cup or bottle holders than you can shake a stick at, with one in each of the four doors and – depending on bottle sizes – up to four more between the front seats. The front door slots can take big litre-sized bottles, too.

The glove box is broad and evenly shaped, so there are no problems stuffing it full of everyday essentials.

There are two engines available in the UK. A familiar 1.2-litre four-cylinder engine is the range-topper and the more expensive option, but a new three-cylinder 1.0-litre unit steals the limelight.

It's gutsy at typical engine revs – arguably more so than the 1.2 – and with its characterful background buzz and tractable, flexible manner, it's the one to go for.

Its only flaw is that while vibrations are isolated remarkably well at the steering wheel and seat, the rear-view mirror does suffer from the shakes.

It also has to be noted just how quiet the i10 is. Keep the revs low, and even at 50mph the cabin is surprisingly hushed. This is the smallest car Hyundai makes, remember, and even if it is bigger than the rivals it definitely sets new standards for interior noise levels.

However, there's only one version in free road tax territory, and to get that you have to drop from five seats to four (weight-saving) and accept the mid-range SE trim only. The rest of the models fall behind some rivals for emissions.

Any other flaws to blot the copy book? That depends entirely on how you use it.

If the size and parkability of a car aren't as important as style, driver-friendliness and refinement, the i10 plays a blinder. Only if you need your city car to excel at parking in tight on-street spaces are there significantly better options out there.

The new i10 is thoroughly impressive. It no longer has the energetic puppy-dog feel of the old version, having ditched it for a more grown-up and composed stance, but there's no doubt this is a

A few simple checks now can avoid the misery of a winter breakdown

TO maintain your car's reliability this winter it is vitally important to ensure that it is properly maintained.

Regular servicing not only ensures better performance but should also mean lower fuel consumption, cleaner exhaust emissions and, of course, greater reliability.

A good place to start is with a winter health check. Some tasks you may be able to do yourself but many garages and service centres offer these vehicle health inspections at this time of year. Just a few simple checks go a long way to preventing many breakdowns.

In addition, a specific winter service check should ensure that vehicles are in good mechanical and electrical condition to face whatever the season might bring. Ideally these should include everything from lights and tyres to battery and starter motor.

Tyres should be carefully checked as worn treads are illegal as well as potentially lethal - for you as well as other road users. Tyre pressures, too, should be regularly monitored.

If you decide against the fitting of winter tyres it is important that you choose an appropriate tyre to see you safely on your way all year round.

Battery failure is one of the most common causes of a winter breakdown, drained from accidentally leaving lights on or simply passed its useful life.

Sluggish starting is a sure sign that your car battery is getting old and that it's time to think about buying a new one. The problem might lie with the starter motor, so ask your garage to check it out, along with the fan belt.

Radiators might be sporting leaks or cracks. Garages should check them and also test the strength of the anti-freeze mix.

Washer systems should also be tested with water and cleaner being topped up to ensure optimum visibility. Hoses, too, should be examined for any cracks or leaks and replaced if required and windscreen wiper blades replaced after a year's use.

Take advantage of the winter checks that most small garages, main dealers and service centres are offering over the coming months.

You don't want to be stranded during your journey, so having your car checked over beforehand could be one of the best decisions you make all year.

Scrap Cars

End of the road for your vehicle?

Responsible drivers scrap their vehicles at an Authorised Treatment Facility (ATF).

Because only an ATF can legally scrap a vehicle. That means any pollutants will be made safe before it's recycled in an environmentally friendly way.

What's more, for certain types of vehicle you'll get a DVLA approved Certificate of Destruction (CoD). A CoD proves that the ATF has told DVLA your vehicle has been scrapped and so is no longer your responsibility. www.direct.gov.uk/motoring

Rams rue two injuries as they fail top test

THE Rams could be without influential centre Jamie Fricker and prop Danny Stonehouse when they host fourth-from-bottom Wisbech in RFU London division three north east this Saturday.

Fricker was injured scoring a try in the 28-19 loss at table-toppers Campion last weekend.

Harlow made Campion work hard for the points and led 12-8 at one stage.

This result leaves Harlow in 7th place in the 12-team league.

In the opening minutes on Saturday Harlow conceded a soft penalty and then with just 12 minutes gone missed tackles allowed the very fast backs of Campion to run in an unconverted try for an 8-0 lead.

Harlow took a quick tap which allowed Stonehouse to make a break and crash over for a try near the posts on 23 minutes.

Michael Dobson converted.

Five minutes later Fricker powered his way over for a try out wide. Dobson hit the upright with the conversion attempt as Harlow led 8-12.

But Harlow's most dangerous back sustained an injury in the build-up and had to come off.

The hosts added a penalty before the break.

Early in the second half Stonehouse, who had been injured earlier in the game, had to leave the field robbing Harlow of one of their most effective forwards.

Campion then scored three tries from breaks and kicked one conversion to lead 28-12.

In the final quarter Harlow came back into the match and lock forward James Unwin touched down for a try. Dobson converted, reducing the margin to 28-19.

Harlow kept up the pressure in the closing minutes but could not find the elusive score which would have earned them a bonus point.

HARLOW: Ephgrave, M. Bowering, Stonehouse, Unwin, Palmer, Roberts, Drake, Claridge, R. Powell, Dobson, Grimley, Heapy, Fricker, Mackie, Brown. Subs: Fitzgerald, Eynon, Ellsworth.

Great victory for Ladies

HARLOW Ladies secured an excellent 2-1 victory at home to Chelmsford III in the Essex Women's Hockey League premier division on Saturday.

The hosts took the lead when Sandra Turner's shot was deflected in by Charlotte Byers.

Chelmsford applied the pressure and soon equalised leaving the score 1-1 at half-time.

The visitors went close with a shot which deflected off a post, while Harlow's Emma Tweddle fired narrowly wide.

The points were secured when a break saw Byers and Sue Thomas combine with the latter rifling in.

Player of the match was Byers.

Harlow Ladies II won 5-3 against East London.

• HARLOW went down 4-3 in a thriller at Old Southendians in division six south east of the East Men's Hockey League.

Harlow were 2-0 down in the first 10 minutes, but fought back with three goals in the last 15 minutes before half-time to lead.

Martin Cox set up Andrew Boughtwood to score, and Harlow levelled from a penalty corner which involved Rhys Mace and James Munro before Boughtwood netted his second.

The third goal was arguably one of the best goals Harlow have scored in the past few years with Benn Hagger making a challenge in his own D and then running up the other end of the pitch, beating four opponents to score.

Dux are left in a flap

HARLOW Hawks stretched their unbeaten run to five games with an excellent 65-46 victory at Aylesbury Dux in division two of the Herts Basketball League on Sunday.

An early Russell Stonehouse three-pointer gave Harlow a lead which they never surrendered for the rest of the contest.

The third quarter saw the Hawks drive the nail in the coffin as they increased their lead to 20 points. White and Norkeliunas were outstanding throughout.

HARLOW HAWKS: Norkeliunas (27 pts), Stonehouse (11pts), White (7pts), Whytock (6pts), Lovett (5 pts), Jones (3pts), Adnan (2pts), Friedner (2pts), Moss (2pts), Burgess, Khatiri. (Full report online).

CLARIFICATIONS: Conor Ramsay and Andre Rid-dell will be available for Harlow Cricket Club next season. A club source had originally said the pair would be away at university.

Fall hinders Canaan as he seals third in UK cross country challenge

Osagie an inspiration as club seeks next generation of stars

HARLOW Athletic Club is urging young hopefuls to use Great Britain runner Andrew Osagie as an inspiration and take up the sport.

The club is looking for new recruits to continue its fantastic success story, as well as volunteers to help out at the club, based at Mark Hall Sportscentre.

Former Burnt Mill School student Osagie is still a member of the club.

Paul Bailey, a club coach and Essex selector, explained: "HAC is working to build much stronger links with our local schools and provide young athletes from our area with coaching, and a sporting platform where they can excel.

"We have a fantastic contingent of loyal junior athletes already, spanning all genres of athletics and they are motivated by their HAC senior role models such as Andrew Osagie, and we are looking to build on this success.

"This past year we've had international, national and county success as a club across the age groups and there has been a string of Essex call-ups for our athletes."

Henry Moore School teacher Gina Bailey is also

TOP DAY: THE pupils from Harlow's Henry Moore, Church Langley and Latton Bush schools, all represented Harlow Athletic Club at Chingford (s)

the Schools Liaison Officer for HAC and is working with locals schools to build links. She can be contacted via the club.

The club wants volunteers to contact it at www.harlowac.co.uk

Meanwhile, HAC's U-11s were competing at the Orion Harriers' schools cross country race at Chingford Plain.

In the U-11 girls 1 mile race, there were 170 competing athletes representing 17 schools.

The HAC girls team, all from Harlow's Henry Moore Primary School, won the team race where the first five score for the team.

Harlow runners were 2nd (Charlotte Pratt), 4th (Savannah Sirkett), 9th (Mackenzie Cranfield), 30th (Ellen Savage), 34th (Katie Brennan) and 54th (Madeleine Bailey).

In the U-11 boys 1 mile race, there were 250 competing athletes from 35 schools.

Kai Boggan, a Latton Green School pupil, was in second when he was mis-directed after an error from marshalls and ended 40th.

Other results were; 7th Oliver Carter (Henry Moore), 9th Alfie Collier (Henry Moore) 45th Frankie Edwards (Latton Green), 80th Ben Savage (Henry Moore), 84th Jack Rushworth (Henry Moore), 103rd Ollie Nelson (Church Langley) and 104th Daryn Gerty (Church Langley).

Paul Bailey has selected the next Essex county cross country team (boys U-13, U-15 and U-17) for the South of England Inter Counties Championships to be held at Biggleswade on December 14.

The squad contains HAC's Lewis Harknett, who will run in the U-13 race.

Exciting times ahead as Rockets sign Kennett

ELITE League star Edward Kennett, who started his speedway career at Rye House over a decade ago, will lead the Rockets into battle in 2014.

Promoter Len Silver has described the signing as a "marriage made in heaven".

Silver said: "I'm absolutely over the moon. When I decided I wanted Eddie as my No 1 everything fell into place.

"It was probably the shortest negotiation period in the history of modern day Rye House speedway.

"It's a marriage made in heaven and I know our fans will be totally over the moon about Eddie's move.

"He's a real crowd pleaser and such an exciting rider. He knows the Rye track like the back of his hand."

The addition of Kennett, pictured, to the team prompted Silver to describe his line-up as "the most spectacular in the country."

The remaining members of the Rockets have a familiar look. Back into the side after an absence of a couple of seasons is Steve Boxall, who rekindled his enthusiasm for the sport as a member of the Kent Kings team in their inaugural season.

Silver said: "He became, during that time, much more professional in his approach than in previous times, and it was this attitude which earned him a place back with the club where it all started for him.

"As a double third tier champion (he won the National League Riders' Championship) it is certainly time for Steve to show the world his true ability."

Boxall, 26, was part of Rockets' 2005 Premier League winning team alongside Kennett.

Returning to skipper the side is Jason Bunyan, a multi New Zealand Riders' Champion, who has invested in two new engines for the new campaign.

At number two is Australian teenager, Tyson Nelson, whose thrilling riding style wowed the Rye House fans, while the equally exciting Jason Garrity is chomping at the bit to get back on his bike for Rockets after returning from a long injury lay-off.

Also back after a season-long injury is Harlow hero, Luke Bown, who will be anxious to show everyone that he has retained his speed and skill.

The seventh Rocket is Simon Lambert – whose addition to the team depends on obtaining the agreement of his parent club, Sheffield.

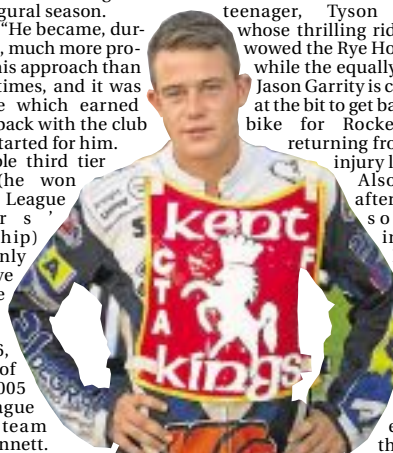

Silver added: "Perhaps not from a scoring point of view, but certainly from the spectating point of view, we are the most spectacular team in the country.

"Every single rider rides right on the edge, and we're now looking to the people of Hertfordshire and Essex to show us their support by turning out in force to meetings."

While Silver was incredibly excited about announcing his team, there was a touch of sadness about not being able to accommodate Anders Mellgren in the squad.

"My only regret – and it is a serious one – is that it means that we are unable to track Anders, a rider for whom I have the highest regard and affection," said Silver.

Mellgren has now signed for Scunthorpe.

Jephcott stars with first vet 40 prize

HARLOW Running Club member Jamie Jephcott produced a podium place performance in the Gunpowder Park run 5K at Waltham Abbey by finishing third out of 84 finishers and first veteran 40 in an excellent 18 minute and 43 seconds.

Son Daniel also put in an excellent performance by finishing sixth and second junior in 19.56.

Andy Terrell was not far behind in sixth place in a personal best (PB) time for the distance of 20.14 and Paul Schroder was 32nd in 23.45.

In the Chelmsford Park run 5K, Janice Page was 78th out of 272 finishers and first woman veteran 50 in a PB of 23.32. Her husband David was 80th in 23.33.

At the Norwich Half Marathon, Jason Haigh finished in 365th place out of 1,500 finishers in 1 hour, 38.59 and wife Celia was 1,365th in 2:00.19.

In the Enigma Track Marathon at Milton Keynes, Andy Kinney finished the 105 laps of the 400m track in 39th place out of 43 finishers in 5:19.30.

Robin Lozeau ran the Hadleigh 5 mile and finished in 12th place out of 71 finishers in a PB for the distance of 38.28.

Andy Kinney completed the Istanbul Marathon, which uniquely runs on two continents, starting in Asia and finishing in Europe. He finished in 2,153rd place out of 2,278 finishers in 5:23.20.

At the Chelmsford 10K Jamie Jephcott finished in 40th place out of 408 finishers in 38.37, just a day after completing the Gunpowder Park run 5K. He was followed home by Steve Mackenzie (62nd, 39.57), Adrian Fell (63rd, 39.59), Daniel Jephcott (73rd, 40.35, PB), Dionne Jones (141st, 44.12), Janice Page (218th, 48.54), Paul Schroder (227th, 49.15, PB), David Page (255th, 50.54), Joanne Mills (343rd, 58.26, HRC Vet 65 record) and Wendy Spring (344th, 58.26).

Eadie suffers nose break in cup win

LEFT-back Layne Eadie suffered a broken nose after a late challenge in Harlow Town's 2-1 win at Enfield Town in the Robert Dyas League Cup on Tuesday.

Leon Antoine put the Hawks ahead when he shot home from six yards in the 33rd minute.

Substitute Alex Read doubled the advantage when he tucked home in the 71st minute.

Corey Whitley halved the deficit with a 79th minute goal but Harlow had done enough to book their spot in the next round and a home tie against Ryman premier division leaders Kingstons. HARLOW TN: May, Martin, Eadie (Read 65), J. Smith (Brown 77), Curley (Williams 47), Blewitt, Hart, Glowacki, Dadson, Antoine, Stamp. # Jo takes Hart from 50th cap England milestone

BY FRANCESCA TYE

star-sport@hertsessexnews.co.uk

THE England netball squad has recorded one of the best years in the history of the sport in this country and at the very heart of its success has been Harlow's former Tegate player, Jo Harten.

Harten, who now plays semi-professionally in New Zealand, has spearheaded England's attack as an unflappable goal shooter and is now widely recognised as one of the world's finest attackers.

The former St Mark's School student and her England side are well established as the world's third best team, but this year they have shown signs of being able to dominate the world's best.

A landmark 3-0 series whitewash over World Champions Australia, coupled with a series victory over South Africa has been indicative of a team that is firmly on the rise.

Harten said: "Beating the World No. 1 Australia in January was a huge reward for the hard work we have been putting in behind the scenes. We hold very high expectations for each other moving forward, and we know the hard work is still to come in 2014 and 2015."

In the midst of this year's success Harten achieved her 50th international cap against South Africa, despite being just 24 years old. And her plans certainly don't stop there: "Gaining my 50th cap for my country was an amazing experience, playing in front of a huge Wembley crowd and winning the game made the occasion very special. I hope I've got it in me to make another 50 appearances and break the 100 mark. I just hope my body holds out!"

Harten is one of the few England players to receive the opportunity to play semi-professionally in New Zealand's ANZ Championships. After making the move two years ago, Harten has not looked back. She said: "The idea of playing in the only semi-professional league in the world was the big draw card for moving to New Zealand. Playing and training against the best netball players can only be a benefit to my own game."

Harten believes the opportunity for English players to play abroad will not only help their own development, but also strengthen their contribution to the national side.

She said: "I feel the contribution from the ANZ players within the England team is definitely beneficial to our game, and it also brings new and exciting styles of play into the English training environment, which is great for us when we prepare to play against Australia and New Zealand."

After playing for the Canterbury Tactix last season, Harten has now joined the Waikato-Bay of Plenty Magic. The move sees Harten replace one of the world's most famous and successful shooters, Irene van Dyk; an opportunity she relishes: "I'm extremely excited about joining the new-look Magic side, with a different group of players and a new coaching staff to get to grips with. I think it will pose different challenges but essentially I am looking to perform week in, week out, and try and make the finals."

Despite her rapid rise to success and move halfway across the world, Harten has not forgotten where her roots lie. She still maintains the contribution of her Harlow coaches at Tegate Netball Club played a very significant role in her early development.

"I've always attributed my early success to both of my Tegate coaches - Jean Cant and Carol Bull. They were amazing in supporting and preparing me when I was a young teenager. Tegate as a club are netball mad and I wouldn't have wanted to play and learn anywhere else as a youngster!"

Harten can't help but be excited about the growth of netball in this country after the England team's resurgence. More than 35,000 women have been reintroduced to the sport since the 'Back to Netball' scheme was launched in 2010 and the latest figures show participation up 34 per cent in the last four years.

Harten hopes the increased success of the national side will translate into greater popularity of the game. "With greater success comes greater rewards. The rewards in our case happen to be increased media coverage and popularity throughout England - long may it continue," she said.

However, for now, Harten is firmly focused on preparing for next summer's challenge of the Commonwealth Games in Glasgow and is not short of optimism when asked about her side's future potential.

"The England team are preparing exceptionally well for the Commonwealth Games, if I am lucky enough to make and be a part of that team it would be awesome, as I think something very exciting is coming for the England team over the next two years," she added.

Promotion's the key says Hawks star

HARLOW Town midfielder James Smith says the side is growing in confidence as Danny Chapman's men target promotion.

Speaking after Saturday's 3-2 win over Erith & Belvedere, which kept the Hawks in the Ryman division one north top six, he said: "We're all buzzing, it's important that we keep this run of form going if we want to get promoted. You can see that we're growing in confidence with each game."

Smith, who progressed through the youth ranks at Crystal Palace alongside the likes of Victor Moses before making his professional debut with Brighton & Hove Albion in 2009, is enjoying life at The Harlow Arena, having joined in September. "Everyone's been really welcoming; they're all decent people and it's fun to be in the changing room."

"Playing in the Ryman League is a new challenge for me, obviously when you're playing at a higher level you get more time on the ball, which probably makes it easier than playing at this level. Everything's rushed and it's difficult to get used to," said the 24-year-old.

The Erith win meant Harlow went unbeaten throughout November, and have now not tasted defeat in 10 matches including Tuesday's League Cup victory against Enfield Town.

Erith took a surprise lead on eight minutes on Saturday when Ryan Flack cut inside from the left wing to beat right-back Robbie Martin and finish beyond keeper Darren Behcet.

Harlow levelled in the 22nd minute when a weak punch from Erith keeper Ashley Bourne fell straight into the path of Leon Antoine who slotted the ball home.

The unmarked Smith put the home side ahead five minutes later when he calmly side-footed the ball into the net.

Bourne saved brilliantly from a looping Smith volley in the 40th minute.

Erith equalised in the 53rd minute. The Harlow defence attempted to play an offside trap which failed miserably leaving Taylor Thomas with just the keeper to beat.

Alex Read grabbed the winner in the 79th minute. Martin picked out the unmarked league's top scorer with a lofted free-kick into the box and he had time to head home.
